Nathan Traller

After working with Nathan for the past year, I think it’s safe to say that he is not only hard-working, he may even be wise. Nathan brings a certain sage aspect to the job that may be the result of studying in martial-arts dojos in the Far East. (On the other hand, he may be silently screaming inside; if so, he fooled me.) Wherever it comes from, Nathan’s unique worldview and essential decency and honor make him a great role model for kids. Plus, he can write one funny e-mail.

I would like to nominate Nathan Traller for Educator of Excellence. He works tirelessly on behalf of students and always keeps in mind what is best for them. He models respectful, professional behavior toward students and staff. The biggest reason I am nominating him is because no matter how difficult a student is, Nathan never gives up on them!
